(Please note that no information about your personal details will be given unless you specifically ask us to)

Important If you do not report a change in circumstances that affects your benefit, you can be prosecuted.

5. Telling us about any changes

Please tell us right away if anything changes for you, or the people who live with you. You must inform us in writing and enclose original proof, if available, confirming the change. If your change of circumstances results in your benefit going up, such as a rent increase, and the change is not reported to us within a month, you may lose benefit. If your change in circumstances results in your benefit stopping or going down, an overpayment will be worked out from the date of change that you will have to pay back to us.

Here are some of the things you must tell us about:

- if you stop or start getting Income Support, or Job Seekers Allowance or any other benefits
- if your rent goes up or down (for private tenants only)
- If you or your partner's, wages or any other income goes up or down
e.g. if you work regular overtime
- if your savings or your family's savings change
