We want to know what you think about the services we provide.

We want to know:

If you have an idea or suggestion about the services you receive - This is called a comment.

What’s good about the service
This is a compliment.

What’s bad about the service
This is a complaint.
You might like to tell us about an idea you have about making a service better. This is called a comment.

You might like to tell us about something we did well. This is called a compliment.

This could be about a member of staff:

- who was very helpful
- who listened carefully
- who made you feel important.
You have the right to make a complaint.

Tell us what is wrong and we will try and put it right.

It’s ok to complain.

We all learn from complaints and they can help us to improve the services that we provide to you.

If you complain, you will be helped and supported, and will be treated fairly.

If you make a complaint it will be kept private.
Your complaint may be about:

- Where you live
- The staff who help you
- Where you work
- Your carers or someone you live with
You might want to complain if:

• You are not happy with the way things are run

• Someone has upset you, called you names or insulted you

• Someone lets you down

• Someone offends you or is rude to you because of your culture
You might want to complain if:

- Someone shouts and swears too much
- Someone tells your private information to other people
- Someone hits you
- Someone steals something from you
What happens when you make a complaint?

If we can sort out your complaint easily we will talk to the people involved and try to sort out the problem. We may want to talk to you about your complaint.

If your complaint is more difficult to sort out, we will look at your complaint more closely to try to solve the problem. Someone who does not take sides will help. They will talk to you in person about your complaint.
What happens if you are not happy with the council's final decision?

If you are still not happy, a person called ‘the Ombudsman’ can help you.

The Ombudsman is not from the council or health service. They will check what the council or health service have done.

They will check what the council or health service has done to try to put things right.
